MODERN SLAVERY ACT 2015: SLAVERY AND HUMAN TRAFFICKING STATEMENT

INTRODUCTION

The UK Modern Slavery Act 2015 requires business to state the actions they have taken during the financial year to ensure modern slavery is not taking place in their operations and supply chains. We are fully committed to play our part in eradicating modern slavery. We firmly advocate for transparency and collaboration to eliminate the risks of modern slavery.

As an organization we have considered the exposure of Agrofertrans to slavery and human trafficking risks, after considering:

- To the best of our knowledge, we have no information about facts of slavery and human trafficking in our supply chain operations;
- The skilled nature of the activities and roles undertaken across the company, and the skill set and qualifications required to perform these activities, minimizing our use of temporary or low-skilled agency staff;
- The application of our policies and processes, including procurement and recruitment processes;
- Encouragement of staff or external individuals to raise concerns in line with our Anti-Slavery policy.

As a result of the factors above we consider the risk of slavery or human trafficking occurring within our direct employee population, business operations and tier one supply chain to be low (and have found no evidence of slavery or human trafficking in our business or supply chains). This will be kept under review.

TRAINING STAFF

To ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains and our business, we provide training to our staff. We also require our business partners to provide training to their staff and suppliers and providers.

RISK ASSESSMENT

In order to combat the risk of slavery and human trafficking, we take steps to identify those areas of our business where there may be a risk of slavery and human trafficking. Also, we assess potential partners, suppliers and buyers based on a variety of factors to prevent working with companies that might be at a risk of non-conformance with our values and principles. This assessment is made in a form of partner risk evaluation process and includes evaluation of such factors as geographic risk, business risk, type of operations, etc. We work only with carefully assessed, well-known and reputable partners.

MEASURING EFFECTIVENESS

Agrofertrans is committed to measuring and continuously improving the effectiveness of our due diligence process regarding modern slavery and human trafficking. To that end, our senior management holds regular meetings throughout the year to review our due diligence and risk assessment system described above.

FURTHER STEPS

Following a review of the effectiveness of the steps we have taken to ensure that there is no slavery or human trafficking in our supply chain we intend to continue to closely monitor our process and those of our suppliers in order to continue to combat slavery and human trafficking.

This statement is made pursuant to section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and constitutes our slavery and human trafficking statement for the financial year ending 2020. This statement was approved by the board of directors on 06 April 2021.
